Harrison Corzan® CPVC Duct Specified for Semiconductor Plants

Harrison CPVC duct systems are produced from a CPVC Corzan® material with unique physical properties, making it a desirable product for fume, exhaust, and air handling duct systems. Harrison offers a complete line of seamless CPVC pipe and CPVC duct fittings from 2" thru 24" diameters.

With the huge disruption in the supply chains and production of chips, the demand for semiconductor plants built in the US have increased significantly. Harrison CPVC Duct is specified at several semiconductor plants for corrosion fume ventilation. The CPVC Duct meets the required flame/smoke standards needed for this industry. Harrison CPVC Duct was specified in addition to stainless lined duct and fiberglass duct.

Harrison also specializes in larger CPVC duct systems fabricated from rolled stock thru 60" in diameter. Square and rectangular CPVC duct components or systems are available per customer specifications. Custom fabricated items can be made from plastic materials including PVC, CPVC, HDPE, PP, and PVDF. Cut your installation costs by buying pre-fabricated header-manifold systems fabricated to your prints.
